The Healthwise® Knowledgebase is your most reliable online resource for making wise decisions about your health and health care. Use the Prescription-Strength Information™ content of the Healthwise Knowledgebase to answer questions about self-care, medications, medical conditions, diagnostic tests, and treatment options. Every topic is based on the best, most up-to-date medical research.

Our mission is to help people make better health decisions. It's a simple mission and one that we have been loyal to since 1975. Medical science has changed. Our technology has evolved. Our partnerships have multiplied. But our mission remains the same.

We help people:

- Think less like patients and more like partners.
- Learn self-care and shared decision-making skills.
- Make decisions informed by both medical science and personal wisdom.

Our history has proven that individuals who make good health decisions have better health and lower health care costs. Our future predicts that prescriptions of evidence-based medical information will become an essential part of every medical encounter.

Information is powerful medicine.

It's as powerful as any test, medication, or surgery. Without it, medical care is incomplete.

The reach of Healthwise content extends from Alaska to South Africa. The Healthwise® Handbook is now used in one of every ten American homes. And eight of the top ten MCOs and hundreds of hospitals and employers use Healthwise information. Still, it is just a start. Our goal is for Healthwise content to help with every health decision.

If information doesn't help people make better decisions, it doesn't help—plain and simple.

Best of health,
